

Jordan Kemere is an internal medicine physician and assistant professor at Baylor College of Medicine where she provides primary care to adults with Intellectual and/or Developmental Disabilities (IDD). She is also the program director of the Adult Developmental Medicine Fellowship and passionately educates many healthcare professional learners in providing high quality healthcare to people with IDD. Dr. Kemere also works closely with partners at Texas Children's Hospital to improve transition from pediatric to adult Healthcare.