

Devin Shuman, MS, LCGC

Devin Shuman (she/her) has a masters degree in genetic counseling from UC Irvine in California and currently works as a telehealth genetic counselor at the non-profit Genetic Support Foundation. She has previously worked at an autism and developmental medicine center and a high risk pregnancy center. Outside of work Devin runs teenage and young adult focused mitochondrial disease community supports, including two Facebook groups and a weekly Zoom support call for teens - complete with virtual proms, holiday events, and roundtables with physicians. Recent projects have included a mitochondrial DNA

Ted-Ed video and giving lectures to genetic counseling graduate programs about mitochondrial disease.
